

Once upon a time...

... there was a girl named Jill who went up the hill to fetch a pail of water. On the way up the hill, she had to cross the bridge to Terabithia at the discretion of the troll that lived under the bridge. The goblin said to Jill, "I will only let you cross the bridge if you give me twenty-five cents". Since Jill was planning on going to the supermarket later and getting a pack of gum, she had twenty-five cents on her and quickly handed it to the troll. Then Jill crossed the bridge to Terabithia and ran into Josh Hutcherson. She was star struck and swept off her feet by his glossy eyes and messy hair. She had only seen Josh Hutcherson in pictures and asked to take a selfie with him because she wanted proof for later to show that she had actually seen Josh Hutcherson.

Jill then asked Josh if he knew where to get water from because she had heard through urban legend that above the mountain there was a fountain of youth that she could drink from and stay forever twenty-one. "I'm pretty sure it's straight up the hill but I'll take you there so you don't get lost," Josh offered. Jill squealed (internally) and the pair went about their journey.

On the way up the hill, they encounter a boy who has cuts and bruises all over his body. Jill, a third year nursing student quickly went over to the boy to mend his wounds. She asked, "Are you okay? What's your name?" The boy replied, "I'm okay, my name is Jack and I just fell off a beanstalk... I was trying to steal gold from a giant but he found out and kicked me off the beanstalk." Jill was scared that Jack's cuts would get infected so she invited him on her pursuit for water from the fountain of youth so that she could clean the wounds. Jack could hardly walk because he sprained his ankle so his one arm around Jill and one arm around Josh as he hopped up the hill.

Finally, at the top of the hill they found a beautiful, golden fountain with an angel statue on top, spouting water and playing the harp.
